Probiotics found in Digestive Harmony influence production of lactic acid, which is thought to decrease intestinal pH and suppress the growth of proteolytic bacteria. Proteolytic bacteria, which are a part of the normal gut flora, produce toxic substances from the digestion of proteins. One of the pioneers in probiotic research, Nobel laureate Elie Metchnikoff, hypothesized that these toxic substances were responsible for what he referred to as "intestinal autointoxication", which he believed would cause the physical changes associated with old age.

Digestive Harmony is a unique combination of the room temperature stable probiotic LactoSpore®, a digestive enzyme blend Digezyme®, and Ginger extract. This combination has been designed to support optimal digestive health and provide a broad spectrum of whole body benefits.

LactoSpore® is a room temperature stable form of Bacillus coagulans, designed to bypass the harsh environments of your stomach and reach the intestines where your body needs it most. Each capsule of Digestive Harmony contains one billion spores of Bacillus coagulans, which activate to the vegetative form once they reach the favorable environment of the digestive system. In the vegetative form, Bacillus coagulans restricts the growth of harmful microbes by competing for nutrients and generating lactic acid.
